

Three directions for Krave.

A family of three random-pick apps for hungry, thirsty, social humans: Krave (food), Krave Out (going out), and Krave Pour (drinks). This guide explores three internally-consistent brand directions, plus three color variants for the two strongest contenders. Pick a winner — or mix and match.

DIR · 01

After Hours

Bold & loud. Neon, midnight, electric.
The "let's go out" energy.

DIR · 02

Diner Pop

Playful & warm. Retro stickers, mixed media, a friendly grin.

DIR · 03

Street Heat

Premium & confident. Streetwear discipline + one signature heat.

SECTION

01 • After Hours

Bold & loud. The neon-at-midnight direction. Best fit if Krave Out/Pour are the marketing tip of the spear.

Hero · Lockup · Logo system

02 · LOGO SYSTEM

One mark, three moods.

The wordmark stays constant. The heat-dot color signals which app you're in.

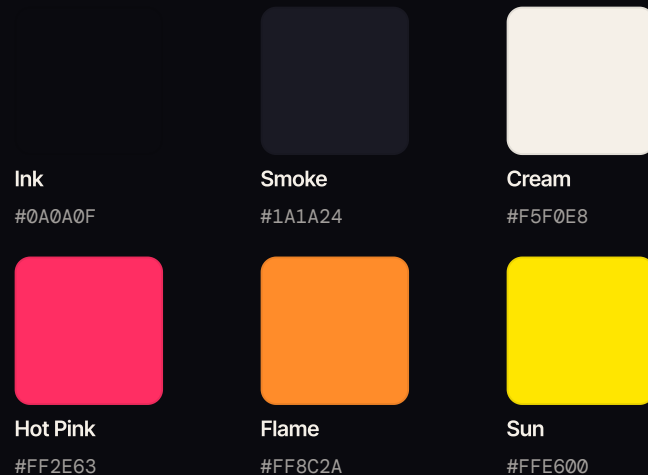

HEAT-DOT ≥ 18% OF CAP HEIGHT · ALWAYS LOWERCASE

Color palette · Typography

03 · COLOR

Midnight, with heat.

Ink dominates. Heat colors are a privilege — used for action, energy, joy.

- INK 60% · CREAM 25% · HEAT 15% (combined)
- NEVER pair flame + hot pink at full saturation on same surface
- Sun yellow only on ink — never on cream

04 · TYPOGRAPHY

Two voices.

Archivo Black shouts. Inter Tight handles the rest.

DISPLAY · ARCHIVO BLACK

shut up and eat.

BODY · INTER TIGHT

The night doesn't pick itself, but Krave does. Three taps, one decision, zero arguments in the group chat.

MONO · DM MONO

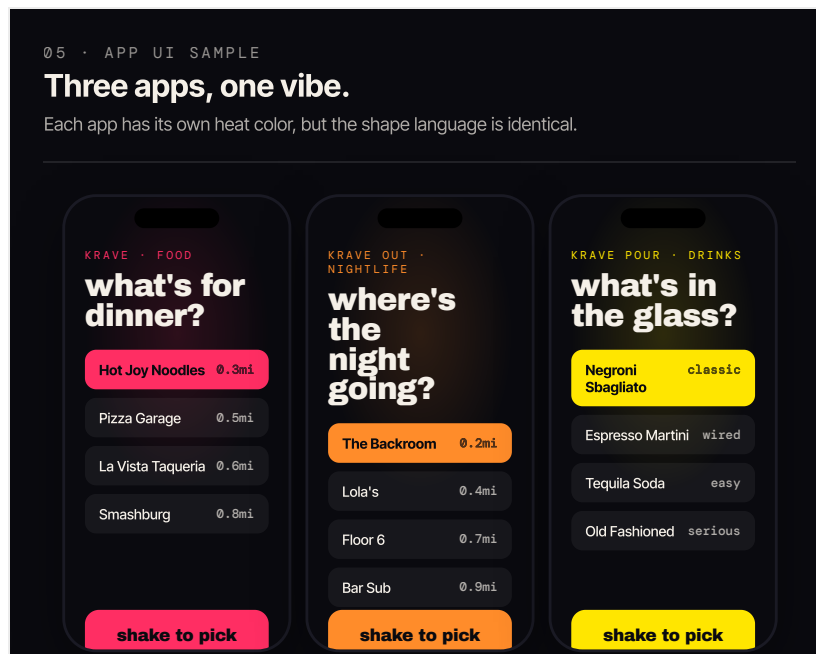

11:48 PM · 3 spots within 0.4 mi · TAP TO PICK

App UI · Voice & tone

05 · APP UI SAMPLE

Three apps, one vibe.

Each app has its own heat color, but the shape language is identical.

06 · VOICE & TONE

A friend with no patience.

Cheeky. Confident. Slightly bossy. Never precious about food.

YES

"you've been refreshing for 4 minutes. just go."

"pick. or we pick for you. (we'll pick for you.)"

"11pm. three blocks. go."

"stop scrolling. start chewing."
